Subject objectives	Classes are taught by a Polish teacher who translates grammatical issues in Polish. The aim of the class is to improve the student's linguistic competence in Chinese grammar. The premise of the course is to expand knowledge of parts of speech, parts of sentence and related grammatical issues in Chinese.

Learning outcomes	Course outcome	Subject outcome	Method of verification
	[SINL3_U10] Is able to independently plan and carry out lifelong learning.	Student understands the need for systematic study of the Chinese language, including grammar, and is able to plan their learning using available resources and tools (e.g. grammar handbooks, online exercises, language learning apps); demonstrates a readiness to engage in regular independent work to consolidate grammatical structures and expand language competence.	[SU8] observation of student's independent or team work
	[SINL3_U06] Is able to use the Chinese language at the B2 level of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).	The student applies the learned grammatical structures of the Chinese language, including more complex elements (e.g., modal and aspectual constructions), to produce simple and moderately complex oral and written statements.	[SU1] oral statement/conversation/discussion [SU2] presentation/project/paper/report [SU3] text preparation/written work [SU4] test/exam - oral or written [SU8] observation of student's independent or team work
	[SINL3_U04] Is able to use the Chinese writing system and tools for its study and analysis, such as traditional and electronic dictionaries, lexicons, language corpora, and databases.	The student is able to recognize and preliminarily analyze more complex grammatical structures of the Chinese language in simple communicative contexts; uses electronic dictionaries and basic digital resources (e.g., lexicons, example sentences in corpora) to supplement grammatical knowledge; can apply selected structures in oral and written statements, taking into account their basic functions and usage limitations.	[SU1] oral statement/conversation/discussion [SU2] presentation/project/paper/report [SU3] text preparation/written work [SU4] test/exam - oral or written [SU8] observation of student's independent or team work
