Subject objectives	The aim of the course is to deepen students knowledge and skills related to the preparation of a bachelors thesis concerning administrative law issues within the criminology programme and to support students in developing and finalising their diploma thesis. As part of the seminar, students develop the ability to independently analyse legal and social problems related to the topic of the bachelors thesis, apply research methods appropriate for legal, social, and criminological sciences, critically analyse academic literature, legal acts, and case law, as well as formulate conclusions and arguments concerning the analysed issues. The seminar also aims to improve students academic research skills, develop the ability to prepare a diploma thesis in accordance with formal and methodological requirements, and prepare students for the diploma examination and the bachelors thesis defence.
