Subject objectives	Acquaint the students with the practical dimension of social quantitative research. To provide a basis for critical reflection on the usefulness of research tools and the data obtained from their application

Learning outcomes	Course outcome	Subject outcome	Method of verification
	[HISTMU2_W05] Has in-depth knowledge to critique, analyse and interpret a variety of sources used in historical research	Students will be able to critically assess the quality and reliability of historical data and the sources from which they are derived, and skilfully estimate the statistical result obtained on the basis of these data	[SW4] test/exam - oral or written [SW1] oral statement/ conversation/discussion [SW2] presentation/project/paper/ report
	[HISTMU2_K01] Is ready to critically evaluate the knowledge he possesses and the content he receives	the student is ready to expand his knowledge independently	[SK8] observation of student's independent or team work
	[HISTMU2_U02] They select and critically evaluate research methods and tools appropriate to a chosen field of history, enabling them to address a variety of tasks and problems	Students will be acquaint with basic concepts and statistical methods used in historical research, such as data analysis, sampling, correlation, extrapolation and interpolation.	[SU1] oral statement/conversation/ discussion [SU2] presentation/project/paper/ report [SU4] test/exam - oral or written
	[HISTMU2_W02] They possess in-depth knowledge of the research methods and problems characteristic of selected fields of history, such as political, social, economic, cultural, regional, family, and gender history, among others	The student has an in-depth knowledge of the methods and problems of research in statistics and historical demography and knows how to apply these methods in historical analysis	[SW4] test/exam - oral or written [SW1] oral statement/ conversation/discussion [SW2] presentation/project/paper/ report
[HISTMU2_U01] They possess research skills in the field of historical sciences, enabling them to independently, critically, and creatively solve complex and non-standard research problems	Students will be able to combine knowledge of statistics and demography with other areas of history, such as political history, social history, economic history, cultural history, regional history, family history, gender history, etc., in order to obtain a more complete picture of the historical problem under analysis	[SU1] oral statement/conversation/ discussion [SU2] presentation/project/paper/ report [SU4] test/exam - oral or written
Subject contents	Sources for statistical-historical research. Difficulties and benefits of using statistical sources in history. Statistical estimation; Sources of demographic statistics from the 16th to the early 19th century (state censuses, treasury sources, church censuses); Preferences in the choice of statistical methods. Development of statistical material; Measures of central tendency - classical and positional averages; Measures of dispersion and measures of asymmetry; Types of chronological series; Absolute and relative growth, indices of dynamics; Equation of chronological series, extraction of seasonal variations, extraction of trend; Analysis of interdependence of phenomena (structure index, intensity index); Methods of studying the state and natural movement of the population (population structure by sex, age and marital status, family reconstruction method); Population relations (population density, urbanisation process, natural population movement).
