Subject objectives

The aim of the course is to demonstrate the importance of introducing the principles of social responsibility into socio-economic life by familiarizing students with the sources of moral values and norms in contemporary ethical codes. Explaining the assumptions of the sustainable development concept will enable the inclusion of development principles in the decision-making criteria and will indicate the need for reliable research and will allow understanding the socially responsible concept in the field of technology and innovation, as well as the development of good employee relations.
